MUST RAISE MONEY TO PLAY THE GAME

Board of Control of High School Athletics Issues Ultimatum on Base Ball Question.

Assurance of financial backing and the promise of a full schedule with qualified high school teams, are the two conditions under which the high school may play baseball this spring. This decision was arrived at a meeting of the board of control of athletics.

Last year's schedule was a dead loss of about seventy-five dollars to the athletic association. The public practically refused to patronize the games, and the high school students alone could not make up the heavy financial obligations undertaken to secure the dates. It is estimated that the rent of the athletic park, together with the expenses of the visiting nines would aggregate about fifty dollars.

There is some doubt as to the possibility of securing dates with high school teams within a radius of thirty or forty miles, which can qualify under the rules of the interscholastic association. Last year great difficulty was experienced in this direction, and the conditions may not have mended this season. Letters have been dispatched to all schools within the required radius, and answers will be awaited before action is taken.

There are a number of men in the school who are very eager to play baseball this spring, but they all realize the wisdom of the ruling of the board of control. A careful canvass will be taken of the possibility of selling advance tickets to cover the cost of the schedule, before hope of putting a nine in the field is rejected.

LAW DECISIONS FOR THE LAYMEN

Recent Findings That Will Interest Others Besides the Lawyers.

In Scott vs. Mayor, et al., the court of common pleas, Baltimore, Md., holds that a person who voluntarily exposes himself to danger in the attempt to save the life of another, who is in peril, is not guilty of negligence, provided he hereby takes no greater risk than would be taken by a man of ordinary prudence under like circumstances; and having taken no such greater risk he is entitled to damages for any injuries received in such attempt if the exposure to peril of the one attempted to save was directly due to the negligence of the defendant. But if such exposure to peril was directly due to the contributory negligence of the person whom he sought to save, he would not be entitled to recover, although the defendant may also have been guilty of negligence. 35 Chicago Legal News, 226.

Interstate Commerce—Property in Transit—Taxation
A flock of 10,000 sheep, which is being driven from Utah by a direct route across the states of Wyoming, to the state of Nebraska, at a rate of about nine miles per day, is the subject of interstate commerce, and is therefore exempt from taxation under Wyoming laws, authorizing the taxation of live stock brought into the state for grazing purposes, although the sheep, while actually in transit have been permitted to graze over land one-quarter of a mile in width, and might have been transported by rail. 23 Supreme Court Rep. (Justice Brewer) 200.

Life Insurance—Execution For Crime
The United States Court holds that a policy of life insurance does not insure against the legal execution of the insured for crime, even though he may in fact be innocent, and therefore unjustly convicted and executed. In the opinion of the court suggests this question: Suppose beneficiaries at the time of the trial of an insured for murder were possessors and the sole possessors, of a knowledge of facts that would establish his innocence? As good citizens, it would be their duty to furnish that evidence and thus prevent a miscarriage of justice. As beneficiaries it would be to their interest to withhold their evidence, and thus let an innocent man be punished. Supreme Court Rep. (Justice Brewer) 139.

Trade Marks—Deceptive Use As Bar to Relief

The use of the term "Syrup of Figs" to designate a laxative medicine preparation, together with printed statements and designs upon the bottle containing the compound and on the cartons and wrappers, calculated to induce the public to falsely believe that fig juice is an important element in the composition of such preparation, whose laxative element is senna, involves such deceit and misrepresentation as will deprive the manufacturer of equitable relief against the sale by another of a medicinal preparation, named, marked and packed in imitation of the older medicine, for the purpose, and with the purpose and design of deceiving purchasers and inducing them to buy the new preparation instead of the old one. 25 Supreme Court Rep. (Justice Sutherland) 491.

Suit on Bond of Public Officer

The superintendent of the mint at New Orleans had received various sums of money in the United States treasury notes, and upon a statement of his accounts by the proper officers of the treasury, there was shown to be a deficit of $25,000. In a suit upon his official bond, the defense was that the 25,000 of treasury notes was placed by him in a tin box in the steel vault provided by the government for the safe keeping of public funds in his custody, and that the notes were in the box were charred, burnt and destroyed by fire that occurred on his part or his agents or employees. It was held, by the Supreme Court of the United States, that this was no defense, nor could the plea avail that the government had not suffered any substantial damage by the destruction of its own obligations, and that it was therefore only entitled to a judgment of such amount in damages as would meet the cost of reprinting new treasury notes to take the place of those destroyed by fire. 35 Chicago Legal News, 231.

The Christian
"The Christian" one of the greatest and dramatic triumphs of the day will be the attraction at the Myers Grand on Thursday evening. The question has been repeatedly asked, what is the moral of the play? To answer that question it is only necessary to revert to Mr. Caine's own explanation: Glory Quayle and John Storm, the two principal characters of the drama, represent types which have been brought into existence by the last half of the nineteenth century, the educated girl who has to fight the battle of life in professions which are usually controlled by men, and the sincere young clergyman who makes an effort to realize in a liberal sense the precepts of the sermon on the mount. But the social and religious problems which surround the steps of these characters in the novel are not dwelt upon in the play, which is simply a romantic love story. The moral of the play can, perhaps, be best explained by the motto chosen for it by the author, which is from the sonnet of Rossetti on his drawing of Mary of Magdalene at the door of Simon the Pharisee. In the drawing, Mary has left the festal procession and is seen tearing a wreath of roses from her hair and ascending, by sudden impulse, the steps of the house wherein she sees the face of Christ. Her lover is following her, and is trying to draw her back. Though it is not intended, Mr. Caine explains "that there should be any other parallel with the subjects of the drawing it is to be hoped that the touching and beautiful lines of this poem express the motive of moral of the play—the spiritual contact in the heart of the good woman who stands between her good and her bad angels, between the beauty and brightness of self sacrifice, between the chaplet of flowers and the crown of thorns when the chaplet of flowers looks fairest." This, Mr. Caine thinks, "is in some part, the story of humanity, the human comedy, the warfare waged in the hearts of all." In the play, Glory Quayle is induced to become a great actress—she loves John Storm, but refuses to surrender her ambition to her love, but in the end, she learns that the love of a good and true man is far better than the honors of the world, and becomes the wife of this earnest and self-sacrificing young clergyman. Otherwise, she chooses what to her is "the crown of thorns" when this chaplet of flowers looked fairest. Although Mr. Caine's intention, in the construction of this play, was to teach a moral lesson, he has not forced it on the attention of the audience; it is presented by incidentally to one of the most fascinating dramatic love stories that has ever been related on the stage.

A Layman's Lenten Sermon.

Twenty-fifth day of lent: Second Corinthians, VII 4v.—Great is my boldness of speech toward you; great is my glorifying of you; I am filled with comfort, I am exceedingly joyful in all our tribulation.

St. Paul wrote these words to the faithful followers. This soldier who had fought against Christ in persecuting his Christian followers and had since become a teacher of the word, wrote what was in his heart. In this particular letter, he exhorted the followers of Christ to keep pure of both soul and body.

Can we not apply this lesson to our daily life? Can we not read this chapter over again and learn from it a lesson that will bring matters at home to ourselves?

One way to keep pure of mind is to avoid morbid subjects. To keep our thoughts and the better, purer side of life and not turn to the wicked through morbid curiosity.

This is exemplified by the inquest which is being held in an eastern city in which the widow of a murderer a statute imposing such a tax on "any carrier" transmitting goods "from one place to another" since the statute, not making any discrimination between local and interstate business, contravenes the federal constitution giving congress sole power to regulate interstate commerce. 71 Pacific Rep. (Montana, Judge Hallway) 404.

Accident Insurance—Total Disability

One is totally disabled, within the provisions of an accident policy, when he incapacitated from work or business, though he is, occasionally, able to leave the house and take a car to his doctors office. 71 Pacific Rep. (Colorado, Judge Thomson) 425.

Homestead Exemption—Commitment To Asylum

One, who, having a wife and infant child, and a house which he has occupied as a homestead, induces a daughter, because of the infirmities of himself and wife, and their inability to assume its expense and care, is still a housekeeper with a family so as to be entitled to a homestead exemption. His character as a homesteader, with the attendant rights of homestead exemption, is not lost by his commitment to an insane asylum and the death of his wife while he is there. 71 Southwestern Rep. (Ky., Judge O'Leary) 940.

Burglary—Breaking—What Constitutes

Under a statute in the state of Arkansas a burglary is committed by either breaking or entering the house of another with the intent to commit felony. Held, that the removing of two slats on the outside of a window, and also the putting and tacks holding a pane of glass in a window but leaving the pane in place, so that no opening was made into the house, did not constitute, so as to render the defendant liable to a prosecution for burglary. 71 Southwestern Rep. (Arkansas, Judge Riddick) 944.

Carriers—Duties to Passengers

While the crew of a train which had stopped at a regular meal station were eating their dinner, a passenger, who had remained in the car was assaulted by an intruder and another passenger. Held, that the railroad company was not liable, as the leaving of the train with no one in charge, while the crew were taking their meals was a reasonable regulation and the assault one which could not have reasonably been anticipated. 71 Southwestern Rep. (Texas, Judge Garrett) 976.

Settlement of Prosecution—Duress

Where a woman has sued out a warrant against a man, charging him with being the father of her child, they may settle the case by his paying her money or giving her a promissory note. If such note be given, there is sufficient consideration, both moral and legal, to authorize a recovery thereon. The mere fact that the note is given while the putative father is under arrest is not such duress as will render it void. 46 Southern Rep. (Ga., Judge Simmons) 417.

Use of Intoxicants By Jury

If intoxicating liquors be shown to have been used by the jury impan-

ed man tells of her love for another, and at which most sensational and sizzling facts are brought out. The court room is crowded with women at each sitting. These women are brought there by a morbid curiosity for evil and their minds do not follow the channel that St. Paul would have them.

Christ came upon this earth to teach us to be better men and women. His disciples continued his work and today his chosen ministers still teach the word of God.

At present the Catholic and Episcopal churches hold daily services to commemorate Christ's fasting in the wilderness. Five other churches, the two Methodists, the Presbyterian, the Baptist and the Congregational are holding a series of revival services.

Certainly this Lenten period is a time when one can learn of questions which may have been in doubt in his mind hitherto and can have explained to him the wonderful teachings of that greatest of teachers—Christ.

GUARANTEED BY THE PEOPLES' DRUG COMPANY

Hyomel the Only Cure for Catarrh, Which Returns Your Money if Not Satisfactory.

It is seldom that a druggist has enough faith in the medicines he sells, even when prepared by himself, to be willing to refund the money if it does not cure; but Hyomel has cured so many cases of catarrh among the consumers of the Peoples' Drug Co., that they offer to refund the money to all who use it and report that they are not satisfied. Hyomel is the simplest and most convenient remedy for catarrh ever offered to the public. Breathed through an inhaler so small that it can be carried in the vest pocket, for a few minutes four times a day, it will absolutely kill all the germs of catarrh and cure the disease.

Catarrh cannot exist where Hyomel is used. It has a two-fold action, killing all the germs in the air passages and lungs and soothing and healing the irritated membrane. Some of the prominent men and women of the country have gladly given testimonials to Hyomel. After seeking relief in vain for years this wonderful remedy has cured them of catarrh, and it is no wonder that they want others to know of it. Rev. Dr. Stryker, of the 34th St. Church, of New York City, writes, "Hyomel gives wonderful relief in catarrh when other remedies have failed. It has been of great service to me."

If you have catarrh, accept The Peoples' Drug Co.'s proposition and use Hyomel.

ST. PAUL DEPOTS WILL BE MODELS

WORK TAKEN UP WHERE IT WAS DROPPED.

PLANS ARE NOW ALL MADE

The St. Paul Company Has Its Arrangements Made for a Complete Transformation.

The improvements started last fall by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road, abandoned on account of cold weather setting in, will be taken up at once and completed.

D. L. Bush of Milwaukee, assistant general superintendent, P. C. Eldredge, superintendent of Mineral Point and Prairie du Chien divisions, D. C. Cheney, superintendent of the La Crosse division, and C. Lapham, district engineer, were in the city today and mapped out the work to be done.

Building Freight House
The old freight house that used to stand between Higo and Academy street and was taken down last fall, is being rebuilt on the company's land, opposite the Hanson furniture factory and will be used for storage purposes. The old passenger station will be moved as soon as possible on the foundation built for it last fall about thirty feet north of its present position, and put in good shape for a transfer and storage house. J. L. & M. F. Greene now have the building full of bundle tobacco and have been notified that it must be removed this week.

Improved Platforms
The platforms and approaches to the new passenger station will be completed, brick being put down in place of the temporary board platforms now in use. As soon as the old passenger station is out of the way the tracks running west across Academy street will be taken up and straightened out so that there will be no unobstructed view of approaching trains as far west as the five points. These improvements will give the St. Paul one of the best stations and storage outfits on their system.

BANQUET FOR THE JUNIORS APRIL 10

Y. M. C. A. Classes, Aged 8 to 17,
Are To Be Entertained at Association Building.

Juniors and intermediates in the Young Men's Christian association are jubilant. They have been informed that the date of the annual banquet of these two departments is not far off. Friday evening April 10 is the time which has been set for the event. In addition to the banquet, which will be given by the parents of the members of these classes, there will be a short post-prandial program, and games will comprise the preliminary to the banquet.

In the two departments there are about sixty-five boys. They rank in age from eight to seventeen years. Fourteen is the dividing mark between the two classes. Since last September they have met six hours a week, the Juniors on Monday, Thursday, and Saturday, and the intermediates on Monday, Wednesday, and Saturday. In charge of the plans for the banquet are Dr. F. T. Richards, who is the head of that department; J. C. Kline, the secretary of the association; and W. E. Mack, the athletic director.

REACHES CENTURY MARK VERY SOON

Mrs. Susan Crossman Will Celebrate
Her Hundredth Birthday on the 28th of March.

Invitations have been issued by Mrs. Susan D. Crossman, widow of the late Warren Crossman, to numerous relatives and friends, to attend the one hundredth anniversary of her birth at the home of her grandson, George A. Crossman, in the town of Rock, on March 28.

Mrs. Crossman, whose maiden name was Susan D. Clapp, was born in Massachusetts, March 28, 1803. She was married to the late Warren Crossman, in Oneida county, New York, and in 1844 came west with her husband and settled in Lake county, Ill., where they resided for four years, during which time her husband worked at the carpenter's trade. In 1848 they moved to Rock county, in this state, and settled on section 34, on a farm of 150 acres.

She is the mother of seven children, five of whom have passed away. There are still living, two sons, L. A. C. of Chicago, and B. P. Crossman, of this city. A number of grandchildren are still living and the celebration of the happy event scheduled for the 28th will be held at the home of her grandson, George A. Crossman, who now works the farm on which she and her husband first settled. Mrs. Crossman although she has lived many years beyond the time allotted for residents of this earth, is quite strong and in good health. She still has the use of all her faculties and is looking forward with pleasure to the day when surrounded with four generations of her family and numerous other relatives and friends, she will celebrate her one hundredth anniversary.

Hanson-Witt
Mrs. Edna Hanson was this afternoon married, at her home on South Main street, to Mr. Eli Witt of Lenox, Iowa. Rev. J. H. Tippet was the officiating clergyman. The ceremony occurred at 2:30 o'clock. The newly married couple will leave the city for their wedding trip on the 5:10 train for Chicago on the Milwaukee road this afternoon.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS

On and after April first, 1903, no contract will be made for business localities. The rate for this class of advertising will be ten cents per line for each and every issue of either Daily or Weekly. The Gazette adopts this policy for two reasons:
First, to improve the news columns of the paper. The first consideration of any newspaper, is the reader; and its value to the advertiser depends entirely upon its popularity with the reading public. Business localities frequently flood the composing room the last hour before the paper goes to press, and news is sacrificed to meet the demands of this class of business.
Second, the Daily Gazette is rapidly extending its circulation throughout the county, giving the Janesville merchant an opportunity to talk to the farmer as well as the city customer, six days in the week. This means faster machinery, and increased expense in producing a paper as well as increased value for all advertisers.
The paper has long enjoyed a liberal patronage from home merchants, and it is in position today to furnish better service than at any time in its history.

MEDAL CONTEST FRIDAY EVENING

THE NINTH ANNUAL RHETORICAL
CONTEST OF HIGH SCHOOL.

FOUR MEDALS TO BE AWARDED

Mahoney, Lovejoy, Recorder and Loomis Medals To Be Given to Students.

Friday evening the annual rhetorical contest of the high school will be held in the high school auditorium. At that time the finals in the contest in extemporaneous speaking, oratory, original poetry, and declamation will be held. The last of the preliminaries was held some weeks ago, and since that date the winners have devoted every odd moment to the necessary rehearsals which each hopes will aid in landing the first honors for himself or herself.

Oratorical Contest
Oratory will be the first on the program, which was today completed. The prize is the Lovejoy medal. The contestants are Thomas McClellan, who will present an oration on John Quincy Adams; Ethel Bates on Labor Unions; Stow Lovejoy on Peter the Great; Harry Doran on Peter the Great; and Stow Lovejoy.

Extemporaneous Speaking
Following this will come the contest for the Recorder medal for extemporaneous speaking. The subjects in this contest will not be announced until a short time before the hour when the contestants will be obliged to take the platform. The four successful speakers in the preliminaries, who are to take part are Mamie Gosselin, Harry Doran, Julia Lovejoy, and Stow Lovejoy.

In Original Poetry
Neither contestants nor subjects are announced on the program in the contest for the Mahoney medal for original poetry. At this time in the evening the winner in the contest will read the poem which captured the first award. The poems have already been submitted, and the decision will be made Friday.

Declamations
In declamatory speaking for the Loomis medal there are four who aspire to possession of the coveted prize. They are Julia Lovejoy who will give "The Fox's Understudy"; Harriet Decker, "The Heart of the Mountains"; Adah Longley, "The One-Legged Goose"; and How the Captain Won the Day, by Edna Murdock.

Judges Not Selected
Supt. Buell is today making arrangements for the judges of the contest. At least two of them will probably be students from Beloit college who have distinguished themselves in their oratorical work. The third is undecided upon.

AT THE HIGH SCHOOL

Miss Ruby Gleason, principal of the Shoppers graded school, was a visitor at the school this morning.

The Michigan school is to have an elaborate and complete outfit, and a separate building has already been erected which will be devoted to the purposes of that study. The principal of the school was at Saginaw, Mich., when Mr. Brace was there, and his acquaintance with Mr. Brace led to commissioning him to buy the apparatus.

The spring vacation begins next Monday, and will continue for one week, the first classes after the recess occurring on Monday, April 6.

The manual training exhibit which was sent to the teachers' convention at Milwaukee, was today shipped to Racine, where it will be used as an argument in favor of manual training in the schools of that city. The specimens are far more elaborate than those which were on exhibition in this city some months ago.

..A WORD FOR THE BOY..

THE BOY usually takes the clothing bought for him and wears it. His preference for style and coloring may be considered or not-usually not. We have prepared in our boys' and children's department this spring a special quality of boys' and children's clothing, made for us by Sykes Kirschbaum, of New York, the acknowledged leaders in the manufacture of boys' and children's clothing. Any boy can feel that whether or not he has been consulted about style, his suit from this stock will be correct.

Novelty Suits for tiny lads shows the good judgment and artistic taste in colors and trimmings that mothers so much appreciate. The natty suits are in light and dark cloths, several different styles, ages 3 to 8 years, at $3.50 to $6.00.

This Boy from 4 to 8 years of age will look at his best in one of these double breasted coats, with which he can wear a shirt waist—they come in light and dark shades, from

$2.50 to $6.00.

The Older lad who begins to appreciate real style, will wear a suit of this style and look as well dressed as the boy with the long trousers. These suits made in the brown mixtures and grays, are very pretty, ages 9 to 16 years, at $2.50 to $8.00.

This Suit is of 2 pieces, coat and pants and is intended for boys 10 to 16 years. The coat is made skeleton back and pants with belt straps and belt of same kind goods a handsome suit for any lad, at $5.00 to 8.00.

The Young man from 16 to 19 years finds his tastes excellently suited in an outfit like this, the cut of the coat is becoming to any youth. they run in price,

$8.00 to $15.00

The Summer Suit for the young man especially intended for warm weather, made coat and pants style. The coat is unlined, trousers made with belt straps and turned up at bottom—cloths in fancy chevrons. An excellent line of these for young men. 15 to 20 years, from $6.50 to $12.00.

Let us be fair to the boy. A good suit encourages him to keep neat and clean and to care for his clothes. If you wish to give him habits of thrift and economy, a trashy, ill-made suit is a poor lesson. We are so firm in our ideas on this subject that we take the greatest possible pains with our boy's clothing department. Whether little boy or young man—this is his store and we are here to serve him.
